GENERAL SIGNAGE GUIDELINES

- The message should be limited to the specifics of the office, apartment, organization, or business located within the premises; signage should not be used as advertisement.
- A sign should express an easy to read, direct message: Keep it simple.
- Letter styles should be chosen that are easy to read and reflect the images of the businesses they represent.
- A storefront should not have more than two signs - one primary and one secondary. The secondary sign should be clearly subordinate to the primary sign in size and visual impact.
- Signs should not cover or obscure any existing architectural detail or element and should be compatible with the architecture of the building.
- The total sign area for all signs attached to a building elevation (including wall signs, window signs, and canopy signs) shall not exceed two times the horizontal length of the wall along that side of the building. Each side of the building shall be calculated separately. For multi-tenant nonresidential developments, the total sign area per wall for each tenant shall be distributed among tenants. For all multi-tenant buildings, it shall be the building owner’s responsibility to distribute the total sign area per wall for each tenant.
- Signage shall not extend above the first floor of the building to which it is attached, except to designate the traditional building name.
- Sign content (lettering, logo, etc.) should not overcrowd the sign background. The message area shall cover no more than 65% of the sign surface for lettering. The message area shall be computed as the area within the smallest rectangle enclosing the limits of the all lettering, logos, trademarks, symbols, and graphics. Logo and trademark sizes shall not exceed the maximum letter size allowed on each sign type. Logos and trademarks that can not legally meet the requirements of these guidelines are prohibited.
- Illuminated signs may be appropriate in the local historic district if they respect the proportions of the storefront and the guidelines outlined above. Signs should be illuminated in such a way as to reduce the spill-over of light to adjacent properties and public right-of-ways. Painted signs can be indirectly illuminated with fluorescent or incandescent lights. Internally lit signs are most effective with light letters on a dark opaque background. Exposed neon letters can also be effective, adding color and vitality to the street.
